Home Education Series consisting

iii Essays in Practical Education.

A Treatise on Self-Training for

I suggest this change because I don't think the form of the present volumes is inviting though it was the form I myself selected.

Also I think it is against P.R.C that part of it consisting of tales & romances. These

As you have proceeded with the printing of H. Id. v. 10, if I remember rightly, the books are stereotyped. I suppose we must keep the same type & paper & page.

But if a light thick paper could be used & a much lighter cover it would be an advantage.

The weight of these volumes makes them unpleasant to handle & also people complain a good deal of the cost of postage especially when they are sent abroad.

My idea is that the

Dear Madam,

In reply to your letter of yesterday's date, we shall be very pleased to enter into the scheme as far as possible. The edition that we have lately printed of 'Home Education' is 1,000 copies, and we are afraid we could not sacrifice the whole of this at present. However, we may, as you suggest start the series with one of the later volumes, say 'Parents and Children', if we can arrange the matter with you. We are afraid that it would not be possible to give you a royalty of more than 6d. per copy, if the books were published at 3s. 6d. each, but perhaps the best way will be for you to send on the MS. of Vol. 4. of the series, which we understand you have ready, when we can go into the cost and put a definite proposal before you.

We are very anxious to meet you in every way in the matter, and if the scheme seems likely to be a success there is no reason why we should not put the new edition of 'Parents and Children' in a smaller and more convenient form in hand at once, though of course this would involve

Dear Madam,

We will bring the question of your Home Education Series before the next meeting of the Literary Committee of our Board when we will write you definitely on the subject. Meanwhile, we beg to say we have gone into the cost of printing 'Schooling' and we find that we could not afford to publish it at less than 3s. 6d. net, giving you a royalty of 6d. per copy. If you could see your way to accept this it will help us considerably in coming to a decision about the whole series.

We are sending you a copy of 'Parents and Children' in sheets as requested.

Gentlemen

I am sending a copy of a private letter from Mr. Franklin (Hon. Sec. Dec. P.M.U.) which will show you that the need of the volumes of the Home Education Series is rather urgent as we are inviting 'Associates' to join us upon the study of these books.
I am not at all sure that there will join us in such numbers as Mr. Franklin anticipates but anyway there will be a demand I am anxious that it should be supplied as early as possible.

I wonder would you care to print a number of leaflets advertising the volumes which might be sent out in the Parents' Review to be reviewed through the P.M.U. Office. I enclose a suggestion of what I mean (to follow tomorrow).

I should like, if you think well to add a sixth volume to the series, —

things should be brought up as bulky volumes of the Heben and I think is greatly needed by parents — a worthy study of the inner life of a well-conditioned young person.

I wrote the story for the

Miss Mason,

Dear Madam,

We only received your letter of the 26th. ult. this morning together with that of the 29th. We are much obliged for the copy of 'Pastor Agnorum' as a sample, but we are afraid that 'Schooling', at any rate, is so much longer a book that we shall not be able to print it in quite such large type. However, we will do our best to print it in as readable and clear a type as possible.

We quite agree that it would be better to have a four page circular than a single leaf. We enclose copy of one of a series we are doing.

With regard to the question of adding 'Max Pauli' to the series, we do not think that there will be any necessity to settle this definitely at the present moment, as if the series is a success as such, we would certainly have no objection to putting in another volume, and we will frame the agreement in such a way as to allow of this.

We think that the idea to make 'Home Education' 3/6 net is quite a feasible one, and we will consider the matter and let you know our decision shortly.

Please note that it will be necessary for us to make the price of the books 3/6 net, and therefore the Parents' National Education Union will have to sell copies at that price. This is the cheapest that we can make them.

We may say that it is our intention to sacrifice the plates of 'Home Education' and 'Parents and Children', and to reset the books so as to be uniform with the others.
You are therefore at liberty to make whatever alterations in them that you may think fit, but we think it will be advisable to reprint 'Parents and Children' as soon as possible in order that we may be able to supply the demand.

3. Parents & Children: Parental Influence

There is much difference between intelligent reading, which the pupil should do in silence, as men parrot-like cramming up of contents; it is not a bad test of education to be able to give the points of a description, the sequence of a series of incidents, the limits of a chain of argument, correctly after a single casual reading. This is a power which a barrister, a publisher, a scholar, a statesman requires; it is a power which children can acquaint with that case, force acquired, the gulf is bridged which divides the reading from the non-reading community.

Miss C. M. Mason,
The House of Education,
Ambleside.

Dear Madam,

In reply to your letter of the 27th inst., I enclose a copy of my letter of the 12th of November last, and will only add that the loss on the series up to the end of last year was less than the amount estimated, viz. £37:5:5. Nos. 1, 2, & 4 are out of print now, so there would only be a small stock of Nos. 3 and 5 to consider.

I am prepared to pay £5 for all your interest as from Dec.31 last, or to sell you all my interest, stereos, &c. from the present date for £37:5:5.

Hoping for an early reply,

I am, Dear Madam,

Yours faithfully

Edward Stanford

Ambleside.

Dear Madam,

In reply to your letter of the 12th inst., I see that your royalty for the last five years has averaged £2:2:5, and I should therefore propose to give you £5 for your interest in the series, the same amount as I paid to Mr Faunthorpe and Canon Daniel recently for their books.

If, however, you like to buy my interest in the series, you shall have it for my loss on the books at the end of the year, - probably about £60. The price would include the stereo plates and any stock there might be. You would then be in possession of everything, and able to make a bargain with a new publisher.

Please let me hear from you at your convenience, and believe me

(Signed) EDWARD STANFORD.

P.S. You will find the Readers on page 33 of my new Catalogue enclosed.
